UK-based FP International said that it is in the process of creating a packaging range made from recycled material.

The company will launch its first two green products within the next month.

The first product will be the Flo-pak Green - a 100% recycled polystyrene loosefill which degrades completely, said FP.

The second product, Cell-o Green, is a recyclable aircushion made from post-consumer plastic waste which, according to the company, uses up less energy to manufacture than paper.
